NORTH

Let's Talk About: How can arts and cultural practice work with education settings to support children and young people with SEND/SEMH needs?

25th September 2025 ONLINE 4-5.30pm

New Writing North will share how the work they do in Primary and Secondary Schools supports children and young people with SEND/SEMH to develop their creative voice, confidence and aspirations, and how their partnerships with schools have adapted to the changing needs and support available for pupils.

GLOW Newcastle will share the findings from our recent North East Combined Authority funded GLOW Creative Connections action research project which took place in three educational settings. The project focused on collaborations between teachers and artist-practitioners working together to support the social, emotional and mental health of young people through arts activity.

We will share the project report authored by Dr Florrie Darling who led the research, along with practice materials and approaches devised by participating teaching and creative colleagues. To request a link to the event contact: office@glow-newcastle.co.uk
